Experience It! Colonial Williamsburg

Williamsburg (originally Middle Plantation) was established to be the capital of the Colony of Virginia in 1699. As threats of enemy attack closed in during the Revolutionary War, the capital was moved inland to Richmond, where it would remain. After the Revolution, no longer the seat of the government, Williamsburg fell into decline through the years. It wasn't until the 1900s that efforts began to restore the 18th century town and preserve its history. In 1932, the Raleigh Tavern first opened as a public exhibition building. Today, Colonial Williamsburg is the world's largest living history museum with its 301 acres featuring restored and recreated historic buildings and taverns, and two world-class art museums.
